Liz Carpenter

The TCCTA annual convention begins with a bang at Noon on Thursday, February 20, with a special appearance by noted author, journalist, humorist, and political activist Liz Carpenter.

When LBJ was nominated for vice president in 1960, he asked Ms. Carpenter to “share the great adventure of our lives.” She served as the first woman executive assistant to a vice president until 1963, when she returned from the Kennedy assassination aboard Air Force One. She wrote the 58-word speech that LBJ used when arriving in Washington. Ms. Carpenter’s memoir of the period was a national best seller.

Ms. Carpenter began her lifelong writing career in Washington as a reporter covering the Roosevelt Administration. In 1944, she married Leslie Carpenter with whom she had two children, Scott and Christy. She is a grandmother, and upon the death of her oldest brother became the unexpected surrogate mother of three. She has become an influential advocate for aging Americans.

Ms. Carpenter’s books include Ruffles and Flourishes: The Warm and Tender Story of a Simple Girl Who Found Adventure in the White House, Unplanned Parenthood: The Confessions of a Seventy Something Surrogate Mother, Getting Better All the Time, Growing Up Simple in Texas, Growing Old with Grace and Humor, and Humor in Therapy: The Widening World of Women. Her most recent book is Start with a Laugh: An Insider’s Guide to Roasts, Toasts, Eulogies, and Other Speeches.

Ms. Carpenter, who in 1971 was one of 271 founders of the National Women’s Political Caucus, notes, “My mother instilled in her children the belief that we could do anything. So we learned to dream big and strive to realize those dreams.”

A native of Salado with a degree in journalism from the University of Texas, Ms. Carpenter left for Capitol Hill soon after college and believes she has twisted more arms and cajoled more people than any politician, lobbyist, or journalist she knows. As a Washington news correspondent, she covered many of the century’s most important events. Always known for her irreverence and humor, Ms. Carpenter now lives in Austin, where she writes and speaks to a variety of audiences. Her home is a gathering place for movers and shakers, and is her launching pad for speeches and articles.

“No one remains the same person after meeting Liz,” said

“Cooperation, Compassion, and Civility in the Classroom”

SPEAKERS .....CAROL TAVRIS and ELLIOT ARONSON

Today, few topics generate more comment from community and technical college educators than the difficulty of maintaining standards of “civil” behavior. Today’s student increasingly comes from a background with little or no exposure to the “traditional” decorum of college life.

Is rudeness just a sign of the times? To what degree is the college teacher responsible for the proper social behavior of students? What are the common threads of such behavior? When can hostility become dangerous? What can the individual teacher, counselor, librarian, or administrator do in response to inappropriate behavior?

Dr. Tavis earned her Ph.D. in social psychology at the University of Michigan, and her career as a writer, teacher, and lecturer has been devoted to educating the public about the importance of scientific and critical thinking in psychology. Her books include the landmark Anger: The Misunderstood Emotion, a critical examination of many popular myths about anger; The Mismeasure of Woman, and Psychobabble and Biobunk: Using Psychology to Think Critically about Issues in the News, a collection of her opinion essays and book reviews for the New York Times, the Los Angeles Times, Scientific American, and other publications.

Dr. Aronson was born in Revere, Massachusetts, to a working class family. Although only a mediocre student in high school, he had the great fortune to be awarded a work/study scholarship to Brandeis University, which had recently opened its doors and was seeking to admit young people who might not otherwise be able to go to college. He has taught at Harvard University, the University of Minnesota, and the University of Texas. Since 1974 he has been a professor of psychology at the University of California at Santa Cruz. He is now Distinguished Visiting Professor at Stanford University.

His most recent book is an analysis of the Columbine High School massacre, which includes concrete suggestions about how to prevent similar tragedies in the future. It is entitled Nobody Left to Hate: Teaching Compassion After Columbine.

GREAT IDEAS FOR TEACHING STUDENTS

SPONSORED BY TCCTA PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

BALLROOM C

m

---

“Public Speaking v. Death”

Jessica Green
Instructor of Speech Communication
Northeast Texas Community College

At one time or another most courses require some type of student presentation. This session is a short cut to a few simple things that can be passed on to students to help prepare them to deal better with this most common of fears.

“The Use of Supplementary Instruction, Group Quizzes, and Presentation in the Classroom”

Matthew Craig
Assistant Professor of Biology
Amarillo College

This session gives the pros and cons of using supplementary instruction and presentations in the classroom as well as individual versus group quizzes to aid in the retention of knowledge. It will also discuss the importance of creating an appropriate learning environment when using these tools.

“E-mail Reflections”

Dan Porter
Professor of Biology
Amarillo College

The use, assessment, and importance of e-mail as an instructional tool in the classroom will be the subject of this session.

“Dynamic Groups”

Timothy Hopp and Melinda McGuire
Instructors of English, and
Carrie Pritchett, Instructor of History
Northeast Texas Community College

Bad things can happen when students are asked to work in groups. What students see as drawbacks are sometimes profound learning experiences.

“Using Mini-Courses and Seminars to Enrich Student Learning”

Steve Lewis
Instructor of Government and Chair
Department of Behavioral Science
Laredo Community College

This is an overview of unconventional resources such as mini-courses and seminars to help students learn material in a hands-on way and to encourage them to think “outside the box.” Imagination is an instructor’s only limitation.

“Creative Classrooms”

Linda Autry
Instructor, General Education
Texas State Technical College–Brownwood

Learn how to enable students to recognize or uncover their creativity and how it can enhance their understanding of any subject.

“Managing the Classroom”

Lola King
Professor of English
Trinity Valley Community College

Find out about strategies that instructors can use to deal with disruptions in a quick, consistent, respectful way with clearly defined consequences. The session is designed to help create an environment in which students are free to learn, and teachers are free to teach.

“Classical Rhetoric for High Risk Students”

Mitchel T. Burchfield
Chair, Developmental Education
Southwest Texas Junior College

This session will show instructors how to use the key questions posed by the classical stasis theory to develop writing topics and analyze reading selection. Methods will be discussed to allow instructors to give high risk students a foundation in composition and rhetoric that is compatible with instruction in all disciplines.

“Motivating Students: Mission Impossible—Without the Im!”

Charla Crump
Instructor of Speech
Clarendon College

This session will provide strategies and activities for teachers to reduce student boredom and enhance motivation. Effective learning in the classroom depends upon the teacher's ability to maintain interest, inspire, challenge, and stimulate students.

“WebQuests”

Karen Angelin
Instructor of Mathematics
Blinn College

This project engages students and uses the Internet to incorporate all competencies as defined by the Coordinating Board. This session will demonstrate how WebQuests can be constructed for any discipline.

“A Simple Listening Ceremony”

Cassandra Knobloch
Instructor of Speech,
Austin Community College

This session will show how to use an American Indian listening ceremony to take “active listening” and “paraphrasing” activities one step further, toward supportive and empathic listening practices.

“Getting Started on the First Day”

Agnes J. Robinson
Instructor of English
Austin Community College

This session gives an overview of anonymous free writing. With this method an instructor can provide students with an opportunity to express their concerns, anxieties, and aspirations.

“Setting Up Your Students for Success”

J. Doug Richey
Professor of Mathematics
Northeast Texas Community College

This presentation provides an interactive demonstration of ways to use environmental manipulation methods to create a low stress “learning sphere,” in which students feel comfortable confronting their test anxieties. Guidelines for preparation and initiation of first day activities actively involve teachers who are interested in exploring the affective domain of student learning.

“Enabling Students to Meet Deadlines”

Michael Martino
Instructor of Computer Science
Austin Community College

This session will demonstrate a generic planning scheme that can be taught to students in about 15 minutes. Once communicated to students, the number of assignments handed in late will decrease and a basis for changing future behaviors will have been established.

“Keeping Hope Alive”

John D. Stritzinger
Instructor of Developmental Mathematics
Austin Community College

This is a cross-disciplinary approach to some very simple concepts that “keep hope alive” in the classroom. It involves some changes in routine teaching that can significantly reduce attrition.

“The Reading Response Strategy”

Marcella Phillips
Associate Professor of English
Austin Community College

This is an overview of an instructional strategy that provides a focus for reading. Additionally, it prompts critical thinking, requires divergent thinking, encourages the student to be prepared for class, and serves as a starting point for discussion. “Reading Response” provides writing experience, reveals comprehension problems, and allows for interaction between instructor and student.

“Connecting College to Career”

Pat Locks
Vocational Counselor
TSTC-Brownwood

An important connection lies between school and career selection. By participating in this session, you will learn ways to market career preparation activities and enhance learning.

IN CONSIDERATION OF THE HEALTH AND COMFORT OF OTHERS

smoking is not permitted in the exhibit hall or during general sessions, section meetings, and special meetings of the

SESSION TRACKS

Experienced TCCTA members often attend section meetings “outside” their teaching disciplines during times when their section is not meeting. The most popular section meeting topics at this year’s convention pertain to pedagogy, technology, and distance education. These issues will be addressed from a wide variety of perspectives over the course of the three-day conference. Below is a list of programs, organized by topic.

GIFFS

Great Ideas for Fitness

4:00-5:30 Friday

A number of wellness activities sponsored by the TCCTA Membership Services Committee will be available during the TCCTA convention in the exhibit area on Friday, February 21, from 4:00 to 5:30 p.m.

Stations will be conveniently available for brief presentations, including:

“Why Don’t Diets Work? What Does?” Tired of yo-yo dieting? Come to the presentation and find out the myths behind dieting and the secrets to long term weight management. Presenter: Susan G. Kazen, assistant professor of kinesiology, Palo Alto College

“Viva la Vitamins” There is a sea of information out there concerning vitamins. What do vitamins do for me? What should I take? Where do I start? This session is designed to help you sort through all the confusion. Presenter: Dee Dee Ninemire, associate professor of physical education, South Plains College

“Sit and Stretch Relief” How to help faculty, staff, and students relieve mental and physical stress and strain from sitting at their desks too long. Different techniques will be shared that can be performed while sitting or standing within a work space. Areas to be covered consist of mental relaxation, muscle stretch, and relaxation of the eyes, neck, shoulders, back, buttocks, legs, and feet. A review/handout will be given following the presentation to be shared with stressed out colleagues. Presenter: Ann Leach, program director of kinesiology, Midland College

“One Laugh to Live” Using humor to deal with stress one day at a time. Presenter: Tracey Cooper, director, nursing learning resources lab, South Plains College

“Do you know your vital signs?” Come by this booth and have your blood pressure, pulse, respiration, and temperature taken and find out the normals and what they mean. Check your weight and height and learn what your body mass index should be, as recommended by the Center of Disease Control and Prevention. Presenter: Lynne Quillian, registered nurse, Hempstead ISD

“Catastrophic Cholesterol” Knowledge about high blood cholesterol and the role it plays in heart disease will be the emphasis of this presentation. Participants will test their cholesterol and heart disease I.Q., solving the mystery surrounding high blood cholesterol. Presenter: Linda J. Adams, wellness program coordinator, Collin County Community College

“Mini-Workouts at Your Desk” The use of bands while in a seated position to complete a “mini” workout will be discussed. Attendees will have the chance to try some of the exercises themselves. Presenter: Susan Evans, athletic director and associate dean of physical education, Collin County Community College

Coordinator of the GIFFS Sessions is Janna Holt-Day, South Plains College.

SECTION MEETING EVALUATION

As a part of its continuing effort to assure that convention section meetings are worthwhile for those attending, and because of its belief that the section meetings are the most important single element in our annual conventions, the Executive Committee requests each member to participate in an evaluation of section meetings attended. Some sections have developed their own forms for program evaluation. This form has been devised for use in evaluating programs for sections which do not have their own forms.

PLEASE PROVIDE YOUR CANDID OPINION REGARDING THE SECTION MEETING PROGRAM. The forms will be collected at the close of the meeting. (If you prefer, you may mail your evaluation form to the TCCTA State Office to be forwarded to the appropriate person.)
